The Great Mindshift

How a New Economic Paradigm and Sustainability Transformations go Hand in Hand

Series: The Anthropocene: Politik—Economics—Society—Science, Vol. 2

- ▶ Provides an easily accessible introduction to sustainability transformation research
- ▶ Discusses key aspects of an emerging new economic paradigm for sustainability
- ▶ Elucidates four case studies of pioneering movements for sustainability system innovations
- ▶ Translates large-system change analysis into individual change strategies

This book describes the path ahead. It combines system transformation research with political economy and change leadership insights when discussing the need for a great mindshift in how human wellbeing, economic prosperity and healthy ecosystems are understood if the Great Transformations ahead are to lead to more sustainability. It shows that history is made by purposefully acting humans and introduces transformative literacy as a key skill in leading the radical incremental change strategies that wicked problems require, illustrating their nature through mapping pioneering practices and their commonalities.

Maja Göpel is a political economist, system transformation scholar, future justice campaigner, sustainability lecturer and project leader dedicated to the quest of collectively bringing about the sustainable societies that we individually wish for. She has 20 years of work-experience in sustainable development from the local to the global which turned her into a possibilist: she enjoys shaking up established ways of thinking and doing to inspire new views on possible futures and unexpected alliances to bring them to life. Maja is a member of the Club of Rome and the Balaton Group, serves on the scientific advisory boards of several organizations and as the mother of two girls. Website: <<http://wupperinst.org/en/cwi/cs/cd/1301/>>

Jürgen Scheffran, Professor, Institute of Geography and Center for Earth System Research and Sustainability (CEN), University of Hamburg, Germany; head of the Research Group Climate Change and Security (CLISEC) in the CliSAP Cluster of Excellence.
